

Vigil supporters will wear mourning bands next Saturday to mark the second anniversary of the signing of the abortive Global Political Agreement. The demonstration will also mark the failure of the Mugabe regime to meet the 30 day deadline set at the SADC summit for a settlement of the outstanding issues in the GPA.

The Vigil had hoped to be redundant by now but this dysfunctional 'unity' government has produced nothing but new life for Mugabe. Vigil supporters will carry posters to the South African High Commission to underline our demand that President Zuma should take the gloves off in dealing with Mugabe. If South Africa is serious about boating out Zimbabwean refugees at the end of the year it will have to ensure they have a homeland safe to return to.

'They chopped at my leg as if it was firewood. I remember seeing my leg where they threw it, the shoe still on it'. This was the testimony of an MDC activist featured in an exhibition of photographs in London taken by an award winning Getty Images photographer who traveled anonymously to Zimbabwe last year. See: www.prisonersofconscience.org

The first photograph shows: 'This young burns victim sits alone in his room. He is a former MDC activist who now has limited use of his hands and is blind in one eye'.

Another photograph was accompanied by the caption: 'He was taken with 4 men and a woman to a Zanu-PF militia base where the female captive was gutted with a knife in front of their eyes, her corpse tossed into the cells with the remaining captives. Each was told the day they were going to die. They were each made to drink 750 mls of liquid glue every day which caused chronic diarrhoea and poisoning. Another man was stabbed to death and when one of the remaining captives refused to cut up the dead bodes so that they could be disposed of, the torturers cut off his feet'.

Have you got the message President Zuma? A brochure produced by the Prisoners of Conscience Appeal Fund, which organised the exhibition, says: 'Zimbabwe is a ruined land. A formerly thriving breadbasket of African opportunity, its leaders have reduced it to a failed state of mass exodus to the South and mass poverty and brutality within. There is no state structure for her people, only dictatorship and repression by Robert Mugabe and his Zanu PF party cronies. Zanu PF has been careful to hold onto absolute control of the army, the police, the banks and the mines. These give Mugabe control and allow for the brutalisation of the Zimbabwean people to continue despite the supposed changes this transition period is meant to bring'.

This is the Zimbabwe that Zuma wants to send exiles back to: 'A week later his body was discovered in the bush. The government post-mortem recorded 'decomposition' as the cause of death'. Decomposed . . . that's Zimbabwe alright. Another picture: 'A severely ill HIV positive young woman alone in a one bedroom shack in an township in Harare

. She says "my parents are dead, my brother and everyone I know is unemployed. I have nothing. That is why I am dying now".'

One of the people President Zuma proposes to deport is picture number 042: 'This crippled man aged 32 stands on crutches outside his room in Johannesburg . . . ' This was his last experience of Zanu PF: 'he managed to drag himself off the road despite his two broken legs, multiple other broken bones and 3 shattered vertebrae.'

This is what the Vigil wants from South Africa: African solidarity. What we mean by that is not African dictators' solidarity but help so that we can have free and fair elections. Mugabe says he wants elections next year because he thinks he can bludgeon his way to another victory.

South Africa

must insist that violence should not determine the outcome of the next elections or we will have more pictures like the ones in the exhibition.
